

Project 7

To-do List

Project: Experimental Theatre

Play: To-do List

Title: Actor, Director, Playwright

Year: August, 2020

Concept: Experimental Theatre

This is my own written script. This project consists of three stories based on three different actors' experience. Three stories share similar situations and feelings to some degree: characters have missed or lost something very important in their life and overwhelmingly regretted for them. The title "To-do List" implies that always remember to do something urgent and essential to your life, or there might be no chance anymore.

Notably, three stories are all three actors' personal experience and they are adapted into a play.

Method and Approach: Adapt and Develop

Three actors were encouraged to share their personal experience to the director(me). Then director found similar traits and adapted their experience into three different stories.

In addition, three actors displayed their stories simultaneously on the stage. They shared the same feelings and atmosphere, and they talked to their invisible partners as if they were talking to someone. Technically, it seemed that there were three monologues (for each), but some parts felt like they were talking to one another because they all shared the same emotion.
